About EHRC

Electricity Human Resources Canada is the national, not-for-profit organization dedicated to ensuring the Canadian electricity sector has a safety-focused, highly skilled and inclusive workforce. We work with industry stakeholders to develop solutions to workforce challenges and promote career opportunities in electricity and renewable energy.

We develop the resources that inspire the next generation and steward forward-thinking initiatives that drive positive change as we build Canada's low-carbon economy together.

Our priority

EHRC regards diversity, equity and inclusion as the cornerstone of a sustainable energy economy and workforce. In many occupations, women, Indigenous people, racialized people, persons with disabilities, 2SLGBTQIA+ and gender diverse people, and newcomers to Canada are represented much less than they should. They also continue to face barriers that limit their advancement or their desire to remain in the occupation of their choice.

To address this gap, EHRC developed the Leadership Accord on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, a public commitment by Canadian employers, educators, unions, associations and governments to advance, integrate and prioritize DEI in their organization's policies, processes, culture and workplace to proactively create a space that is welcoming, safe, and empowering.

About Agents of Change

EHRC’s signature annual conference convenes the employers, HR professionals, unions, educators, students, new grads and key partners across Canada’s electricity workforce. Through dynamic sessions and compelling guest speakers, attendees explore the latest DEI practices and insights from across Canada and around the world.

Participants leave with practical tools, renewed commitment, and strategies to better support underrepresented individuals within their organizations.

2026 theme

Bold Voices, Brave Spaces

This year’s conference invites attendees to explore fresh ideas, practical tools and resources to better support underrepresented individuals within their organizations. Expect inspiring speakers, meaningful conversations and valuable connections with DEI champions nationwide.
